JAPANESE NAVY ACTS NEAR H.K.

Junkmen's Grim Stories of Boats Set Adrift

LOCAL LAUNCH CREW MACHINE-GUNNED

BARBARISM IN CHINESE WATERS

Junks attacked, dismantled and set adrift without oars or sails or any other means of propulsion with women and children on board;

Ruthless shelling and machine-gunning of non-combatants who in fear attempt to escape:

Such grim stories as these concerning Japanese naval activities within the immediate vicinity of Hong Kong waters, were graphically related to "China Mail" representatives this morning by victims of Japanese inhumanity, who somehow managed to escape.

The stories given below concern but three incidents among many. What is the fate of others who have not returned to tell their tale can only be conjectured.

Two warships were apparently needed to stop Lai Kan, master of a fishing junk, from carrying out his occupation.

TWENTY BOARD BOAT

He sailed from San Mi at about 8 p.m. on Sunday on a fishing trip. On board the junk were three other fisher men, his wife and three children.

Shortly after 5 a.m. on Monday morning when he was about 15 miles from San Mi, he saw two warships flying Japanese flags tear through the water towards his junk.

About 20 Japanese marines boarded. One of them, who spoke Chinese, questioned him as regards his occupation. They also exhibited a piece of paper on which were written some characters, but he, being uneducated, was not able to read it.

WANTON WRECKING

The marines then went about wrecking everything on board the junk.

Before they left they chopped off the junk's masts, destroyed every inch of sail on board and smashed the oars.

Completing their destructive work, they then left and sailed away in an easterly direction.

Lai Kan managed eventually to rig some sort of a sail from hatch covers and let the boat sail before the wind, his intention being to get away as quickly as possible fearing that the Japanese might return and sink the boat.

ADRIFT

Drifting blindly throughout the day and the night, he met junk No. 15HW shortly after dawn on Wednesday.

The master of that junk volunteered to tow his boat to Hong Kong and they arrived in the harbour late in the afternoon and put into Shauiwan Bay.

FOUR CHILDREN ON BOARD

Another victim was Ho Chi-tat, a fisherman of the Hoi Fung District, who told the "China Mail" that about 6 a.m. on Monday, a Japanese warship came alongside his boat which was lying off Ma Kung at San Mi.

After threatening the boatmen with bayonets and rifles, marines

JAPANESE BOMB FLOOD REFUGEES AT KIUKIANG

Shanghai, To-day. The Japanese air force, extremely active, yesterday carried out numerous raids over important towns and railway junctions in the Yangtse Valley, destroying many bridges in this region.

Traffic on the Yangtse River continues to run as usual, in spite of the raids.

Kiukiang, in Kiangsi, has been inundated by flood waters, and Japanese planes added to the horror of evacuation of thousands of peasants by ruthless bombing. Squadrons of Japanese planes suddenly appeared and attacked the town.

Bombs and machine-gun fire from the air caused a veritable panic among the unfortunate Chinese fleeing from the flooded districts.

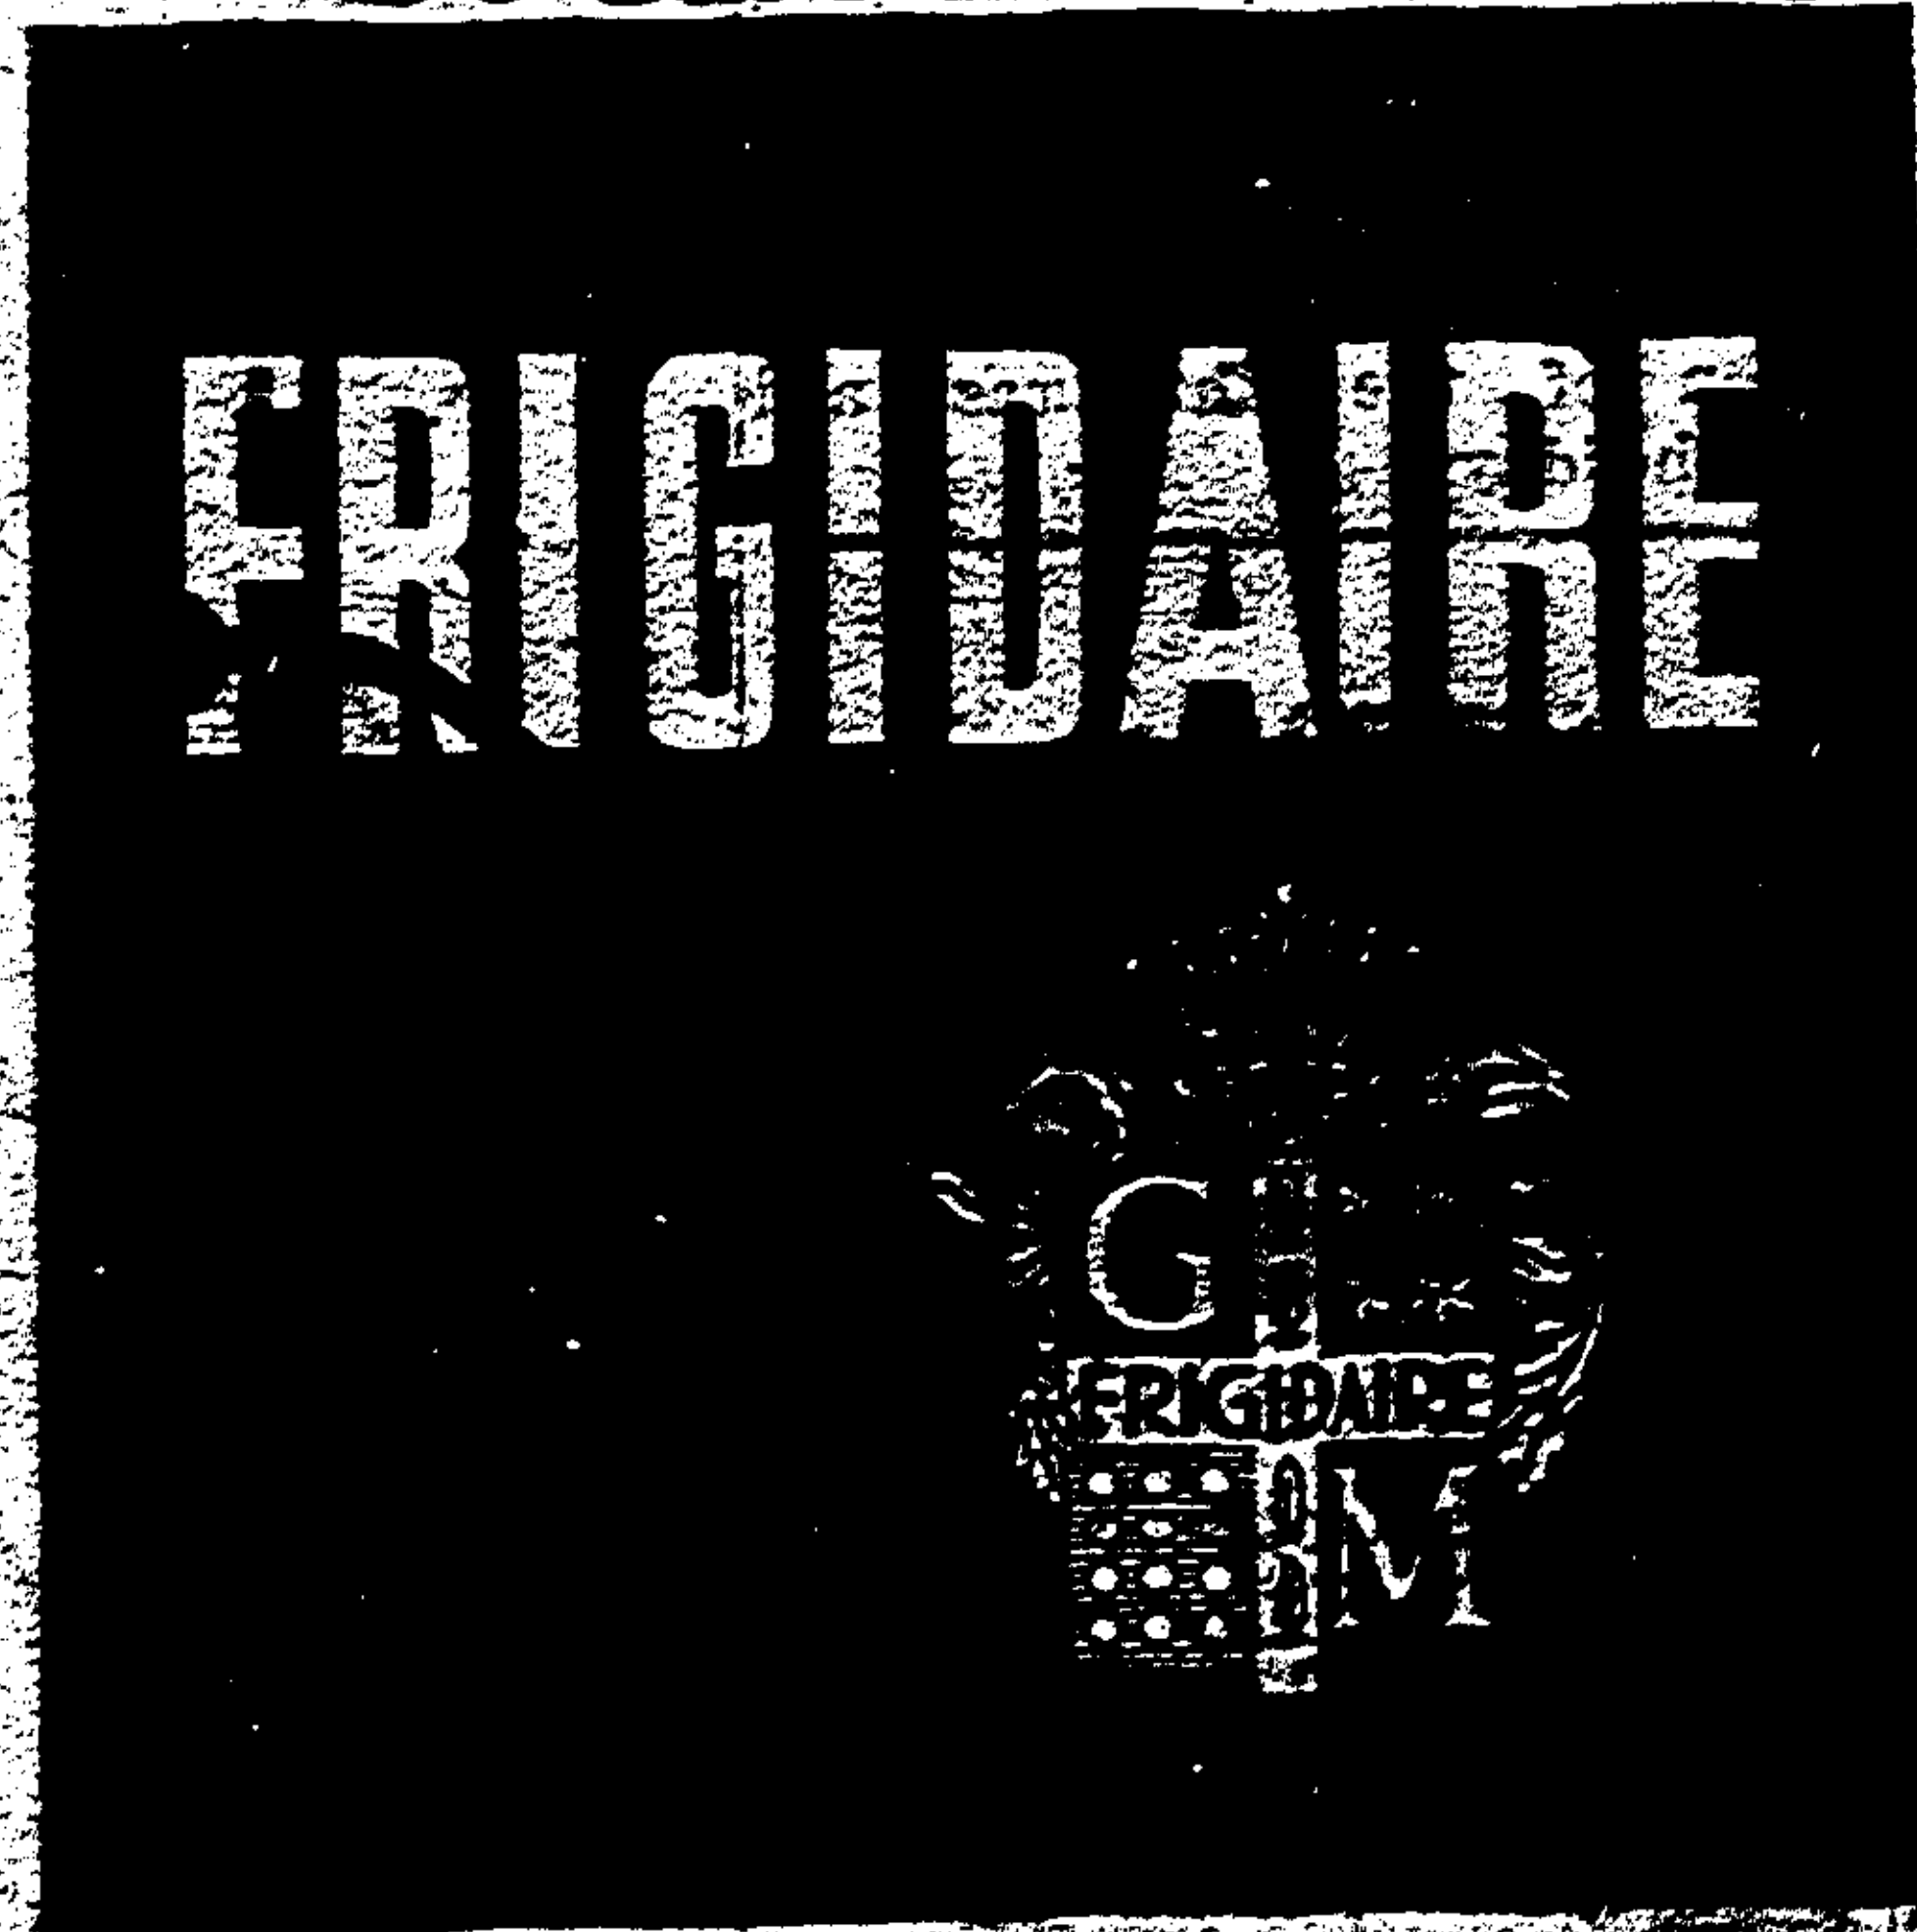

THREE SHOT DOWN

The Chinese claim that Chinese pursuit planes shot down three Japanese bombers which participated in a raid over Nanking yesterday.

Railway communication between Nanking and Shanghai is now restricted to night traffic over side lines, and a journey which normally

FINNS ACCUSED OF SPY PLOT

Moscow, To-day.
A group of Finnish "spies," who took leading posts in the Soviet Republic of Karelia, have been discovered and "annihilated," announces M. Zakovsky, chief of the Leningrad Secret Police.

He alleges that these men entered Karelia in the guise of Communist refugees from Finland.

He also asserts that under instructions from the German Intelligence Department, the Finns organised an infantry brigade which in the event of war was to seize Karelia and cut off the strategic Kolsky Peninsula and the Murmansk Railway.—Reuter.

ROOSEVELT'S POLICY EXPLAINED

New York, To-day.
"President Roosevelt has invoked the Neutrality Law against China and Japan," declares the "New York World-Telegram" in an editorial on the President's ban on Government-owned ships carrying war material to the Far East.

"Neither of these countries has formally declared war on the other, and so it may be said that President Roosevelt is leaning back to avoid possibility of an incident that might get this country into war.

"But that we believe is precisely the attitude the great majority of the American people want him to take."—Reuter.

EXTRA CARE WITH YOUR CLOTHES

If you let them go the garment will never look new again, no matter how well it is pressed.

SUBSIDISED SHIPPING IN PACIFIC

Canberra, To-day.

The Premier, Mr. J. A. Lyons, told the House of Representatives yesterday that the Australian Government would co-operate with the other Dominions in the Pacific in granting a loan to a shipping company.

The loan would enable the company to construct two new ships in order to compete with foreign shipping plying between the Dominions.

Mr. Lyons added that the United Kingdom was also co-operating.

Details of legislation for the Government subsidy would not be introduced in this session of Parliament.—Reuter.

BRIDGE NOTES

By ELY CULBERTSON

Leading A Suit Partner Has Bid

When you are making your opening lead in a suit your partner has bid, lead as follows:

At suit contracts, open your highest card if you hold three or a doubleton. If you have four or more of your partner's suit, open your highest only if your holding is A x x x, K Q x x, or Q J x x; otherwise, lead fourth highest, even from 10 9 8 2.

At no trump contracts, open your highest card only from doubletons, or from worthless three-card suits [headed by no honour]. Otherwise, lead your fourth highest from four or more cards of your partner's suit, and your lowest from three cards to an honour [A x x x, K x x, K 10 9, Q 10 x, J x x, K J x x, 10 9 x x, etc.]. But when the suit is headed by two or more honours in sequence, lead the highest honour.

TO-DAY'S HAND

A player need not be even mildly expert to realise that a bid from an opponent identifies him with high card strength. When both opponents have bid it requires a certain amount of thought to determine their respective high card holdings. Consider to-day's hand:

West, dealer.

East-West vulnerable.

NORTH

S.—Q 9 5 4

H.—K Q J 3

D.—8 6 5

C.—K 9

C.—J 10 6 3

Match point duplicate game. The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	1 heart
1 spade	3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

Obviously North and South bid their hands to the limit. North's jump heart raise being particularly questionable.

West opened the queen of diamonds and, after viewing the dummy, promptly shifted to the deuce of clubs. Declarer, without more than a second's hesitation, put on dummy's king, which held the trick. Two rounds of trumps were drawn and there then was no difficulty in holding the opponents to one club and one spade, in addition to the diamond already conceded.

The club guess had been the crux of the hand, but in sober truth it had been an easy guess. True, East had opened the bidding, but had taken no action whatsoever after that one bid. West had overcalled the heart with a spade and from that fact, and the spades in sight, East must be very short of spades. Surely, with shortness in his partner's suit, the ace-king of diamonds [marked from the opening lead] and the club ace, East would have doubled the final four heart contract. That he had not done so was 98 per cent proof that he did not have the club ace.

It is unfortunate that players often go wrong on guesses that are just as easy as this one.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Question: Dealer opened with a bid of three spades. Next hand, my partner, doubled. Third hand passed. Should I respond with hearts, or let the three spade bid stand with the following? S 8 6 H Q J 8 7 5 D A 8 C 10 8 7 5.

Answer: Bid four hearts.

TO-MORROW'S HAND

Both sides vulnerable.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in to-morrow's article.

JO-JOTTE POINTER

When your opponent bids a suit at Jo-Jotte, the bidding does not necessarily end there. You still may double (if you are certain of defeating the contract) or bid no trump. A suit bid may not be overcalled, you remember, with another suit, but only with no trump.

The no trump overcall is highly advantageous if you make your contract. Your opponent's jack and nine of trump are reduced from their position as the highest cards in the deck to a status of almost complete worthlessness. The absence of a trump suit makes it easier for you to win tricks with your aces and tens. But you must have those aces and tens because, if you are outscored, you almost certainly will lose a game, and your opponent might not have scored 80 points for game at his trump suit.

CHINESE AND SEVERN LEIGH

Shanghai, To-day.
The Chinese Seamen's Union has sent a message to the British crew of the steamer "Severn Leigh," chartered by the Mitsubishi interests, paying tribute to their "sit down strike" in Hong Kong harbour against the carriage of material to Japan.
The Union praise the British sailors "for upholding international justice and opposing the Japanese aggressive war against China."—Reuter.

GEN. WU TE-CHEN AND CIVIC CENTRE HAVOC

Canton, To-day.
General Wu Te-chen, Governor of Kwangtung, is greatly interested in the visit carried out yesterday by a Reuter correspondent to the Civic Centre at Kiangwan.
General Wu was mainly responsible for construction of the Centre and deplores news of its damage.
In an exclusive interview with Reuter to-day he declared:
"The Centre has been destroyed under the iron heel of the enemy but the dynamic spirit of the Chinese people in Shanghai is expressed by their determination to build and fight rather than wait and die."
GREATER SPIRIT
General Wu added that by destroying material structures the enemy only strengthened a greater national spirit nourished by the blood of those who died "on the battlefields to defend China."
Every bomb, every shell dropped on non-combatants by the Japanese, he declared, was another nail in their coffin.
"I fully endorse the statement of Mayor O. K. Yui of Shanghai that the enemy will not be there long," he concluded.—Reuter.

GERMANS CHARGED IN MADRID

Paris, To-day.
Two Germans, Alfred Roeder and Heinrich Holtmann, and three Spaniards, were arrested in Madrid on charges of espionage yesterday morning, according to newspaper reports.
Details of the charges are not revealed, according to the press, but the Spanish authorities state that gold and jewellery valued at £200,000 was found in the apartment of the two Germans.
One of the Germans was a dentist.—Trans-Ocean.

Badly Hurt By Tiles

Pang Ah-kam, aged 24, of No. 64, Tai Yuen Street, was struck on the head by tiles dislodged by recent rains and was admitted to the Queen Mary Hospital yesterday. His condition is serious.
While delivering newspapers at St. Stephen's College, Stanley, Li Ng, aged 37, was badly bitten on the body, arms and legs by two dogs belonging to Mr. T. O. Saunderson, of No. 5, Bungalow, Stanley. He was admitted to the Queen Mary Hospital for treatment.

SEVERN LEIGH CREW APPEAR IN COURT

The first-class sensation caused in local shipping circles last week, when the entire crew of the British s.s. Severn Leigh, giving sympathy with the Chinese cause as their reason, indicated that they would decline to go to Wakamatsu, in Japan, had a culmination in the Marine Court this morning when 23 men appeared before the Hon. Comdr. J. B. Newill to answer charges brought by the master, Capt. A. E. Ford.

The summons, framed under the Merchant Shipping Act of 1894, reads as follows:—

"Being a seaman lawfully engaged aboard a seagoing ship registered at Bristol in the United Kingdom, to wit, s.s. Severn Leigh lying in the harbour of Hong Kong did combine with other members of the crew of the said ship to disobey the lawful commands of Albert Edward Ford, the master of the said ship to impede the progress of the voyage of the said ship."

ADJOURNMENT SOUGHT

Mr. D. L. Strellett, appearing for D. Crowder, W. Matthews and A. Macdonald, applied for an adjournment on the ground that as the summonses were only served at 6 p.m. yesterday most of the men had had no time to seek advice. Information had been received that other members of the crew had expressed a desire to be legally represented.

Mr. R. M. King, appearing for the master, said the men were warned last Thursday that they would be prosecuted for disobeying the orders of the master and he felt they had had ample time to seek advice and arrange for representation. The court would appreciate, Mr. King continued, that unnecessary delay would cost the owners a great deal of money and it was imperative that everything should be settled as soon as possible.

His worship granted an adjournment until 10.30 a.m. to-morrow. Rev. Cyril Brown said that he had spoken to the men and as he did not think they would let him down, His Worship need have no fear that they would fail to put in an appearance.

The following are the names of the men charged:—H. Steinman, M. Paredes, D. Croyder, E. Power, F. Trevavian, A. Macdonald, R. Redmond, B. Burgess, R. Lambert, Stanley Eames, William Matthews, E. O. Gantoa, James Bassey, Joe Davies, John T. Davies, James Isaiah, J. Chiku, Dixon Jones, John Stephens, Coxon Ayama, F. Davies, C. Todd and E. Hollingsworth.

The Royal Observatory reported this morning that an anti-cyclone is stationary to the north-east of Japan, and a ridge of moderately high pressure extends from it to N. China.

Pressure is relatively low in a trough extending from Indo-China across the Philippines to the Pacific south of the Loochoos.

Local forecast:—Light S.E. or variable winds; fair, with local showers.

SHANGHAI CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

Shanghai, To-day.

In view of the weather having become cooler, it is thought likely that the cholera epidemic (which has resulted so far in 659 cases) will diminish in intensity.

The fact that no considerable spread of the epidemic has been observed in the past few days has contributed to reassuring of the thousands of refugees in the foreign areas.

Sixty-five deaths from cholera have been reported among the Japanese troops in the Paoshan district, on the Yangtse west of the Whangpoo estuary, but it is believed that the epidemic is also declining there.—Trans-Ocean.

TUNG CHI UNIVERSITY TO MOVE

Shanghai, To-day.

A meeting of professors of the German-sponsored Tungchi University at Woosung, held in Shanghai yesterday, decided to transfer the University from the fighting area round Shanghai into the interior.

Kinhua, in Chekiang Province, on the Hangchow-Nanchang Railway, has been chosen as the new seat of the University.

Although the University buildings have been badly damaged, most of the books and so on had been removed to Shanghai before the outbreak of hostilities, so that work can be resumed at Kinhua in the near future.—Trans-Ocean.

BOTH SIDES PREPARE FOR JAPANESE OFFENSIVE

Shanghai, To-day.

No change is reported in the opposing lines round Shanghai, and both sides are apparently preparing for the new Japanese offensive, which is expected to begin at the end of the week.

In addition to fresh troops, the Japanese have also landed numerous tanks, designed, it is considered, to play a major role in the coming fighting around Chapei.

The Chinese are preparing, without much interference, new defensive positions in rear of their present lines, and the Chinese high command has also despatched four divisions to Pootung.

Pootung was in consequence severely bombed by Japanese planes and warships yesterday evening.

The commanders of the British, American and French warships have again requested the Chinese and Japanese authorities to spare the foreign Settlements during the fighting, and in particular to instruct their anti-aircraft batteries not to fire over the Settlement. — Trans-Ocean.

BITTER LOTIEN FIGHTING

Shanghai, To-day.

It is understood that the Japanese troops are being re-grouped in preparation for the coming attack on the new Chinese defence lines.

Fresh Japanese landings on the Yangtse, between Liuho and Lotien, indicate the Japanese intention to strengthen their right wing.

Bitter fighting occurred in the Lotien sector during the night, when the Japanese are reported to have pushed their front a few hundred metres ahead but only at terrific cost. — Trans-Ocean.

AIR RAID ON CANTON MISCARRIES

Canton, To-day.

The Japanese attempt to carry out an air raid on Canton late last night was frustrated by a Cantonese pursuit squadron, which intercepted the raiders several miles out of Canton.

There was a brief exchange of machine-gun fire, but aerial fighting at night was a new experience for the Chinese pilots and the Japanese escaped, dropping their bombs into empty fields.

The whole of Canton was blacked out during the period of alarm. — Our Own Correspondent.

CONTINUOUS AIR ATTACKS ON NANKING

Berlin, To-day.

Life to-day in Nanking is continuously exposed to Japanese aid attacks, according to a description by Paul Scheffer, former editor-in-chief of the "Berliner Tageblatt," who is at present in Nanking, cabled to that paper.

Practically the only thing people talk about in the capital, he says, is air attacks.

Nanking is fortified for a wide range round about the city, and is surrounded by anti-aircraft guns and listening apparatus.

Machine-guns are mounted even on the ancient walls of the capital, and the public are now forbidden to stroll along the walls.

A. A. GUNS ACCURATE

Herr Scheffer was an eye-witness of the latest Japanese air raid on the capital.

The Japanese bombers, he says, were not accompanied by pursuit planes, since the latter were unable to carry enough fuel for such a long hop.

Herr Scheffer pays tribute to the accuracy of the Chinese A. A. guns.

MADRID COMPARISON

Speculation is rife in Nanking, he says, as to how long it will be before conditions in the capital become like those at Madrid.

Air raid alarms, he says, are a customary feature of life in the city.

There is enough rice but prices of nearly all other foodstuffs have doubled.

Butter, which has to be imported from Australia via Shanghai, is almost completely lacking now. — Trans-Ocean.

JAPANESE LINES HEAVILY SHELLED

High Officer Reported Fatally Wounded

Shanghai, To-day.

The Japanese front along the North Szechuen Road was subjected to heavy shelling by Chinese artillery this morning.

An unconfirmed report states that the commander of the Japanese marines was fatally wounded. — Our Own Correspondent.

JAPANESE SUFFER HEAVY LOSSES

Night Attack Breaks Down

Shanghai, To-day.

A large-scale drive by the Japanese on the Woosung-Paoshan front took place late last night.

A Japanese spokesman this morning declined to make any statement, but the Chinese report that the Japanese suffered a severe defeat and retreated leaving hundreds of dead on the field. — Our Own Correspondent.

Police Seeking Information

At 7.20 p.m. on September 8, a Chinese was knocked down and killed by a motor car in the Castle Peak Road near Kiukiang Street. At the time of the accident there was another car stationary on the east of the road, facing Kowloon. The driver or occupants of the second car are requested to communicate with the Traffic Department, Kowloon, as it is believed that material evidence can be given by them regarding the accident.

ITALY LIKELY TO JOIN MEDITERRANEAN PATROL

Grant Of Equal Participation Anticipated

NEXT MOVE EXPECTED AT NON-INTERVENTION MEETING TO-MORROW

Rome, To-day.

It now appears that granting of parity in patrol of the Mediterranean will be sufficient to satisfy Italy.

It is probable that the next move will be made at the meeting of the non-intervention committee in London to-morrow (Friday), and it is pointed out that this will satisfy Italy's earlier demand that the piracy question should be handled by the committee and not by a separate conference at Nyon.

"Tribuna" says that the tone of the Italian reply is not such as to render a satisfactory solution impossible.

In return for her adherence Italy only asks the condition of parity with the other great Powers. — Reuter.

BRITISH ATTITUDE

London, To-day.

Reports that the British Government considers it impracticable for Italy to take over an important part of the anti-piracy patrol system in the Mediterranean, are denied in London.

It is pointed out that Britain and France intend to proceed immediately to put into force the present arrangements, but should Italy later want participation it may be found possible to modify the scheme so as to give her a reasonable share. — Reuter.

BERLIN AGREES

Italian Demands Justifiable

Berlin, To-day.

Political circles here stress that Italy's attitude towards the Nyon Agreement and the Anglo-French invitation to participate in naval control of the Mediterranean, is identical with the attitude of Germany, and that the Italian decision to decline the invitation in its present form was taken with the concurrence of the German Government.

It is also stated that it now lies with France and Britain to find a formula which satisfies Italy's justifiable demand for equality of rights.

It is further stated that otherwise the Nyon Agreement will not facilitate co-operation between the Powers in the Spanish question, nor will it fulfil the purpose of the Nyon Conference, which was to prevent submarine piracy. — Trans-Ocean.

NO MEETING THIS WEEK

London, To-day.

It is stated in London that no meeting of the non-intervention committee has been fixed for this week. Possibly the committee may meet next week. — British Wireless.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S ATTITUDE

London, To-day.

In connection with the efforts to win over Italy for participation in the Mediterranean patrol, says the "Star", the Premier, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, considers the Italian demands for parity as legitimate, and insists that justice be done to this standpoint.

Mr. Chamberlain, the paper says, wishes to avoid anything which might complicate the forthcoming Anglo-Italian conversations.

In any case, the Premier desires to prevent possible incidents between British and Italian warships in the Mediterranean. — British Wireless.

PRESS COMMENT

Change To Oblige Italy?

London, To-day.

Signing of the Nyon Agreement by no means marks the end of the negotiations over submarine control, declare the London newspapers, and the discussions will continue in Geneva, where the Italian attitude is expected to play a significant role.

"The Times" interprets the official Italian Note as implying that Italy has not absolutely refused to participate in patrol but only under existing conditions.

The "Daily Telegraph," on the other hand, is of the opinion that representatives of the nine signatory Powers, and especially those of Britain and France, would scarcely feel themselves obliged to institute changes in the system as drawn up at the Conference for the purpose of obliging Italy. — Trans-Ocean.

DIFFICULTY NOT UNBRIDGEABLE

Italian Participation

Paris, To-day.

Signing of the Nyon Agreement is greeted by the French press as an outstanding triumph for Anglo-French diplomacy, although many papers say the arrangement would have been more effective with Italian participation.

It is generally opined, however, that Italy's demand for equality does not constitute an unbridgeable difficulty, and that an eventual understanding will be arrived at with Rome.

"Figaro" declares that Italy's demand for equality of the Italian Navy with those of Britain and France in carrying out patrol, leaves the door open for further negotiations should Britain and France feel themselves authorised to define the mission entrusted to them at Nyon.

EASY MATTER

The Nyon correspondent of "l'Epoque" writes that according to the wording of the Agreement dealing with zones allotted to each nation, the possibility of extending the Italian zone without thereby breaking the agreement, exists.

"Le Jour" is of the opinion that the entire problem will be placed before the non-intervention committee at its next meeting, and that arrangements will be made whereby Italy's prestige will be upheld.

The foreign affairs correspondent of "l'Oeuvre" states that Italy intends to lodge a protest with the

DANGER IN NYON PACT

London, To-day.

London diplomatic circles fear a new and grave non-intervention crisis in the event that efforts for securing Italian co-operation in policing the Mediterranean fail.

All hopes of such a settlement are not yet abandoned, however, though it is pointed out that if Italy were drawn into the position of having to protect transports to the Valencia Government, this would double her support of General Franco, which might result in France throwing open the Pyrenees frontier.

This would be practically the end of non-intervention. — Trans-Ocean.

THE ROBBER SYMPHONY

Can the moving picture ever attain to the heights of art? There are some who firmly believe that it can, and there are also some disillusioned directors and scenario writers who started out with a great deal of enthusiasm to produce pictures of truly artistic merit—they have a different opinion.

These men do not deny the possibilities of the moving picture as a means of expression, but they assert that as long as the big firms control the industry with their capital and ownership of hundreds of picture-houses the standard of the moving picture will remain at its present level. The "big shots" of the picture industry don't like experimenting. They have no convictions other than that a picture must make money. Their only faith is in the box-office. "Give the people what they like," they say, meaning that you get the same old stuff dished up again and again, the productions of which proved to be box-office successes.

Once in a while a genuine effort here and there escapes the vigilance of the picture magnates, but the public gets tired of sitting through a show to pick out a few choice bits from the rubbish heap. The Londoner, New Yorker, or Parisian can escape to special picture-houses where they make a point of maintaining a high level and select their programme from the productions of the whole world. Because there are some producers, not forgetting the Russian state productions, in England, France, Holland, and Sweden.

In Hong Kong where one has not got that means of escape one must be extremely thankful to Mr. L. Zimmerman for bringing to us such a picture as the "Robber Symphony." It is a distinct relief from the usual trash one has to suffer week after week. Those who look askance at everything labelled "highbrow" can be assured that there is nothing highbrow about this picture. In its perfect simplicity, not to say naivete, lies its main charm. The story is only a bit of fantasy out of which the director, Friedrich Feher, has woven a delightful pattern. There is very little dialogue in the picture and even that, left out, would not be missed. The acting and the accompanying music is so expressive that any explanation seems superfluous. If there are scenes in which the direction sometimes drags, they can be excused as they are not too many or too long, and the picture as a whole make up for it amply. The photography aims high and often achieves its aim. There are some very unusual and amusing shots, without the forced and rather stale angles.

There is a great deal of decorative formality in the picture, its rhythm, the make-up of the players, the settings remind one of a marionette show. It is not too overemphasised, but just enough to give an interesting, piquant flavour to the production. The lovely outdoor scenes taken at the Cote d'Azur, in the mountains of Tyrol, the High Alps in France, and on the Mont Blanc maintain the naturalism of the picture. Though the chief part is played by young Hans Feher, son of the director, there are really no stars in the picture, which in itself is a pleasant innovation. Every player has his turn and delights us equally well.

It is altogether a production which nobody should miss, and the absence of the usual sex appeal and other box office vulgarities makes it a picture eminently suitable for children too.

THE WORLD GOES BY By "ULYSSES"

THE latest description of the war, as reported by "In Parenthesis," of the "North China Daily News."

In Parenthesis doesn't mind admitting that he was responsible for the quiet which prevailed on Sunday. It was with the greatest reluctance that he had to summon the high commands to a conference over the show they are putting up. There was a certain amount of stiffness about the proceedings at the commencement, but Ip, decided that the only thing was to tell them where they got off.

"Looka here, you fellers," he remarked transferring his well-chewed cigar from starboard to port. "You've got this show all wrong. Don't you understand your public wants action. Why, that lousy little one-horse show in Spain has been playing to full houses for the past year, and you fellers with all the talent in the world aren't doing any better than a one night stand."

"Yer fires was pretty good, and that entr'act on Friday was the snake's hips, but believe me, or believe me not, when you ain't got a beauty chorus—and that's a pity because I reckon a leg show has the box office beat—you've gotta givem sumpin' fer their money."

"Well, what do you suggest?"
Fr'instance, why not open each day's programme with an overture? Izzy could put in plenty of oompah, oompah on the Whangpoo, and all the rest could come it with their instruments. Believe me, boys, if we can't give 'em legs, we gotta give 'em noise.

"If you are referring to the Izumo, allow me to inform you that the vessel's name is not Izzy."

"Oh, yeah? Well Izzy looks better on the bill anyhow, and I tell yer again you've got to think of yer public. Make the show snappy, keep the audience thinking how good it is, and even if it's rotten they'll like it. And how? And think of the newspapers. Do you think all these fellers here want to telegraph their home papers just to say the day was quiet. Why boys, unless you speed things up a bit, you'll fix bayonets and charge." And be off the front page, and only Little Audrey left the room smiling wriggle in as a three line par. Be gently.

yourselves, lads. Remember what my old father used to tell me. In jobs like this nothing succeeds like excess. But, you know, I still think it's a pity you haven't got a leg show. Makes things brighter to my mind."

As you will doubtless remember things moved a bit faster yesterday morning, but Ip has warned them that unless they get more snap into their turns, he'll definitely take the show off.

Little Audrey dropped in yesterday dressed in Chinese clothes, and not too good at that.

"Got a cigarette, Ip?" she asked.
"Certainly. But what's the idea? Why the Chinese habiliments?"

"I'm helping the Chinese in this show."

"Whatever do you mean. If you'd had a grain of sense you would have evacuated to Hong Kong weeks ago."

"Yes, and have been vaccinated, inoculated and segregated. Believe me, big boy, when I want to be shot, no Hong Kong squirt is going to do it with a hypodermic, when there are nice big guns about to do it properly."

"Well, what have you been doing?"
"I'm a Chinese irregular. Didn't you see me last Friday. I was yulching my sampan down the river, near the Idzumo. Say, did those lads get a scare?"

"What were you doing there?"

"Well, you see, I was a bit sore over my failure to torpedo Izzy a few weeks ago, and I was sort of looking things over again, when they opened fire on me."

"But weren't you afraid?"

"Yes, terribly. The way they were carrying on might have made me late for lunch."

"But I mean all that machine-gunning, and the bombardment—"

"The bombardment was not so good. I got pieces of shrapnel in my hair, which took the amah quite a time to get out afterwards. But the shooting didn't worry me."

"Why didn't it?"

"The only way they ever hit a target with a machine gun is to be off the front page, and only Little Audrey left the room smiling wriggle in as a three line par. Be gently.

PRESSURES AGAINST PEACE

Among problems now confronting the world's peace advocates, distribution of raw materials is vital. The subject, it may be recalled, was the basis of an official British proposal some time ago for an international conference to find economic solutions for related political problems. The war in Spain brings the question into sharper focus.

The force which economic pressures exert upon the dictatorships is emphasised in the present intervention crisis by a remark Chancellor Hitler made recently during a speech at a party rally in Wurzburg. Germany wants the Franco forces to win the war, he said, because Germany needs Spain's ores for the making of its munitions.

Such incidents help to clarify one of the underlying causes of world unrest; but the cure is now the chief concern. This need gives timely impact to a survey of the political and economic effects of monopolies in the production of non-ferrous metals, recently carried out under the auspices of the Bureau of International Research of Harvard University and Radcliffe College.

The results of the study are compressed within a book dealing with International Control in the Non-Ferrous Metals (New York: Macmillan, $6.50). The work outlines the unequal geographical sources of valuable raw materials; traces the trend toward monopolistic control, and weighs the strategic implications of the interdependence of nations in the light of these related factors.

The temptation to exploit the consumer, one infers, is the main weakness in the operation of international mineral monopolies. Whether price, production and distribution of vital industrial raw materials should function in a free world market under the impartial control of an administrative agency sponsored by the League of Nations is a question which, in view of the belligerent policies of the "Have-nots," merits enlightened consideration.

Professor Elliott's outlook on the political implications is decidedly dismal. He concludes that:

From the point of view which still thinks in terms of a world economy, the only conceivable alternative to a catastrophic series of imperialistic wars is an opening up of the vital raw materials of the world to all nations. And this of course must be accompanied by a correlative freeing of the clogged channels of world trade. But to-day the time may already have passed when concessions to freer capitalistic methods will serve. Italy, Japan and Germany are being daily carried closer to a state capitalism like that of Russia. And the pressure of their rulers and upon their rulers may be too great to permit any solution save that of war.

The dangers of a system that exploits another's legitimate needs are clearly evidenced in the flood of facts impounded in these 800 pages. The other contributors have hewn out a monument of graphic documentation to support the opinions presented by Professors Elliott and Rowe.

"SHE USED TO BE SO SLIM"

Chance Remark Which Opened Nurse's Eyes

It is often a chance remark that makes a woman realise she is putting on weight. Nurse N.C. heard the Matron say she was looking middle-aged and plump—and it opened her eyes. Read how she got rid of that unwanted fat:—

"I am a nurse, and did not notice how I was putting on flesh until I overheard a remark passed by Matron. Isn't Sister looking middle-aged and plump, and she used to be so slim? I determined to try Kruschen, and for the last four months I have steadily lost weight. When I weighed myself after that chance remark, I was 10 stone 8 lbs. I weighed myself each week, and I now weigh 8 stone 7 lbs. I did not diet or do any special exercises; just kept on ordinary food. I shall never be without Kruschen."—(Nurse) N.C.

Greatest Battle Of War Raging In North China

MAGNIFICENT REARGUARD ACTION BY CHINESE

STUBBORN EFFORTS TO STEM GREAT ONSLAUGHT

Peiping, To-day.

Details are at last trickling through of the battle raging in North China, where the Japanese opened a major-scale offensive on Tuesday in the region between the Tientsin-Pukow Railway and the Peiping-Hankow Railway.

The battle is the biggest clash of armed forces in the Far East since the Russo-Japanese War in 1905.

First phase of the operations began when the Japanese troops were set the difficult task of crossing the Yungting River, west of Ku-An, at a spot where the river is 300 yards wide and is flanked with steep banks on either side.

Heavy rains had raised the level of the water until it was from four to five feet deep.

This, together with the strong nature of the Chinese positions on the south side of the river, greatly hampered the Japanese, whose losses were very heavy.

After seven hours' desperate fighting they finally succeeded in gaining a footing on the south bank, thanks mainly to artillery and aircraft support.

As the Chinese were lacking in both these weapons, they were compelled to retreat south, upon which the Japanese rushed tanks and armoured cars across hastily constructed pontoon bridges, and succeeded before nightfall in capturing important Chinese positions.

CROSS TING RIVER

The Japanese advanced eight miles and crossed the Ting River without difficulty, as the Chinese had left three bridges intact.

Meanwhile, Japanese forces had pressed forward in the adjacent sector of Kuanhsien and crossed the Yungting River.

The city of Kuanhsien, centre of the Chinese defence line, fell into their hands at 7 o'clock yesterday morning.

Two hours later they had entered Yungchingsien, and then carried out an encircling movement with the object, which failed, of trapping eight Chinese divisions, representing the first line of the Chinese defence.

MAGNIFICENT REARGUARD ACTION

Four of these divisions, under the command of General Wan Fu-lin, former Governor of Heilungkiang, are now slowly withdrawing from the positions they occupied near Kuanhsien, but are offering stubborn resistance to the Japanese advance in a magnificent rearguard action, in spite of the fact that in this sector the Japanese are particularly well-equipped with rapid light tanks and a fleet of aeroplanes, which continually harass the troops.

26TH ARMY FIGHTING HARD

Further westward, four other Chinese divisions, forming the 26th Army under General Sun Lien-chang, are endeavouring to stem the Japanese offensive that was launched south of Lienghsianghsien at 9.30 yesterday morning.

By noon the Japanese had captured Yangtzekang and had also entered Fangshanhsien.

Fighting continued throughout the afternoon, the Chinese troops battling with magnificent courage in the face of superior equipment. Chinese headquarters on the north front was subjected the whole day to persistent air raids.

BOMBING RAIDS

Squadron after squadron of Japanese planes dropped bombs on the town of Chochow and stations on the Peiping-Hankow Railway.

Yesterday afternoon, the Japanese occupied Tafangchan, while their vanguards yesterday evening were nearing the stations of Patchow, Sincheng and Tin shing, on the Peiping-Hankow Railway.

SHANSI OPERATIONS

Japanese troops also made advances in Shansi yesterday, according to Japanese reports, which claim that the Chinese retired in the direction of Yenmenkuan Pass.

Rumours that parts of the Chinese Communist armies had been sent to Shansi by the Nanking Government are confirmed by news that Kuangling is defended not only by the Chinese division which retired there from the Nankow-Kalgan sector but also by two divisions of Communist troops.

TAIYUAN BOMBED

Tatung, where the white flag was hoisted when the vanguard of the Japanese army reached the town, has now been occupied by the main body of the Japanese forces.

Immediately after capture of the town, Japanese Sappers began to repair the railway bridge, which had been partially destroyed.

CANTON RAID FROM CRUISER NEAR HONGKONG

Canton, To-day.
Reuter learns reliably that last night's air raid on Canton was carried out by seaplanes from a Japanese cruiser at the mouth of the Pearl River.

A few bombs were dropped on the outskirts of Canton but further details are still awaited regarding the whereabouts and damage done.

Several foreigners heard and saw bombs dropping south of Canton between 11 o'clock last night and midnight.—Reuter.

FRENCH FIRE ON REBEL PLANES

Paris, To-day.

Aerial Dog-Fight Over Loyang

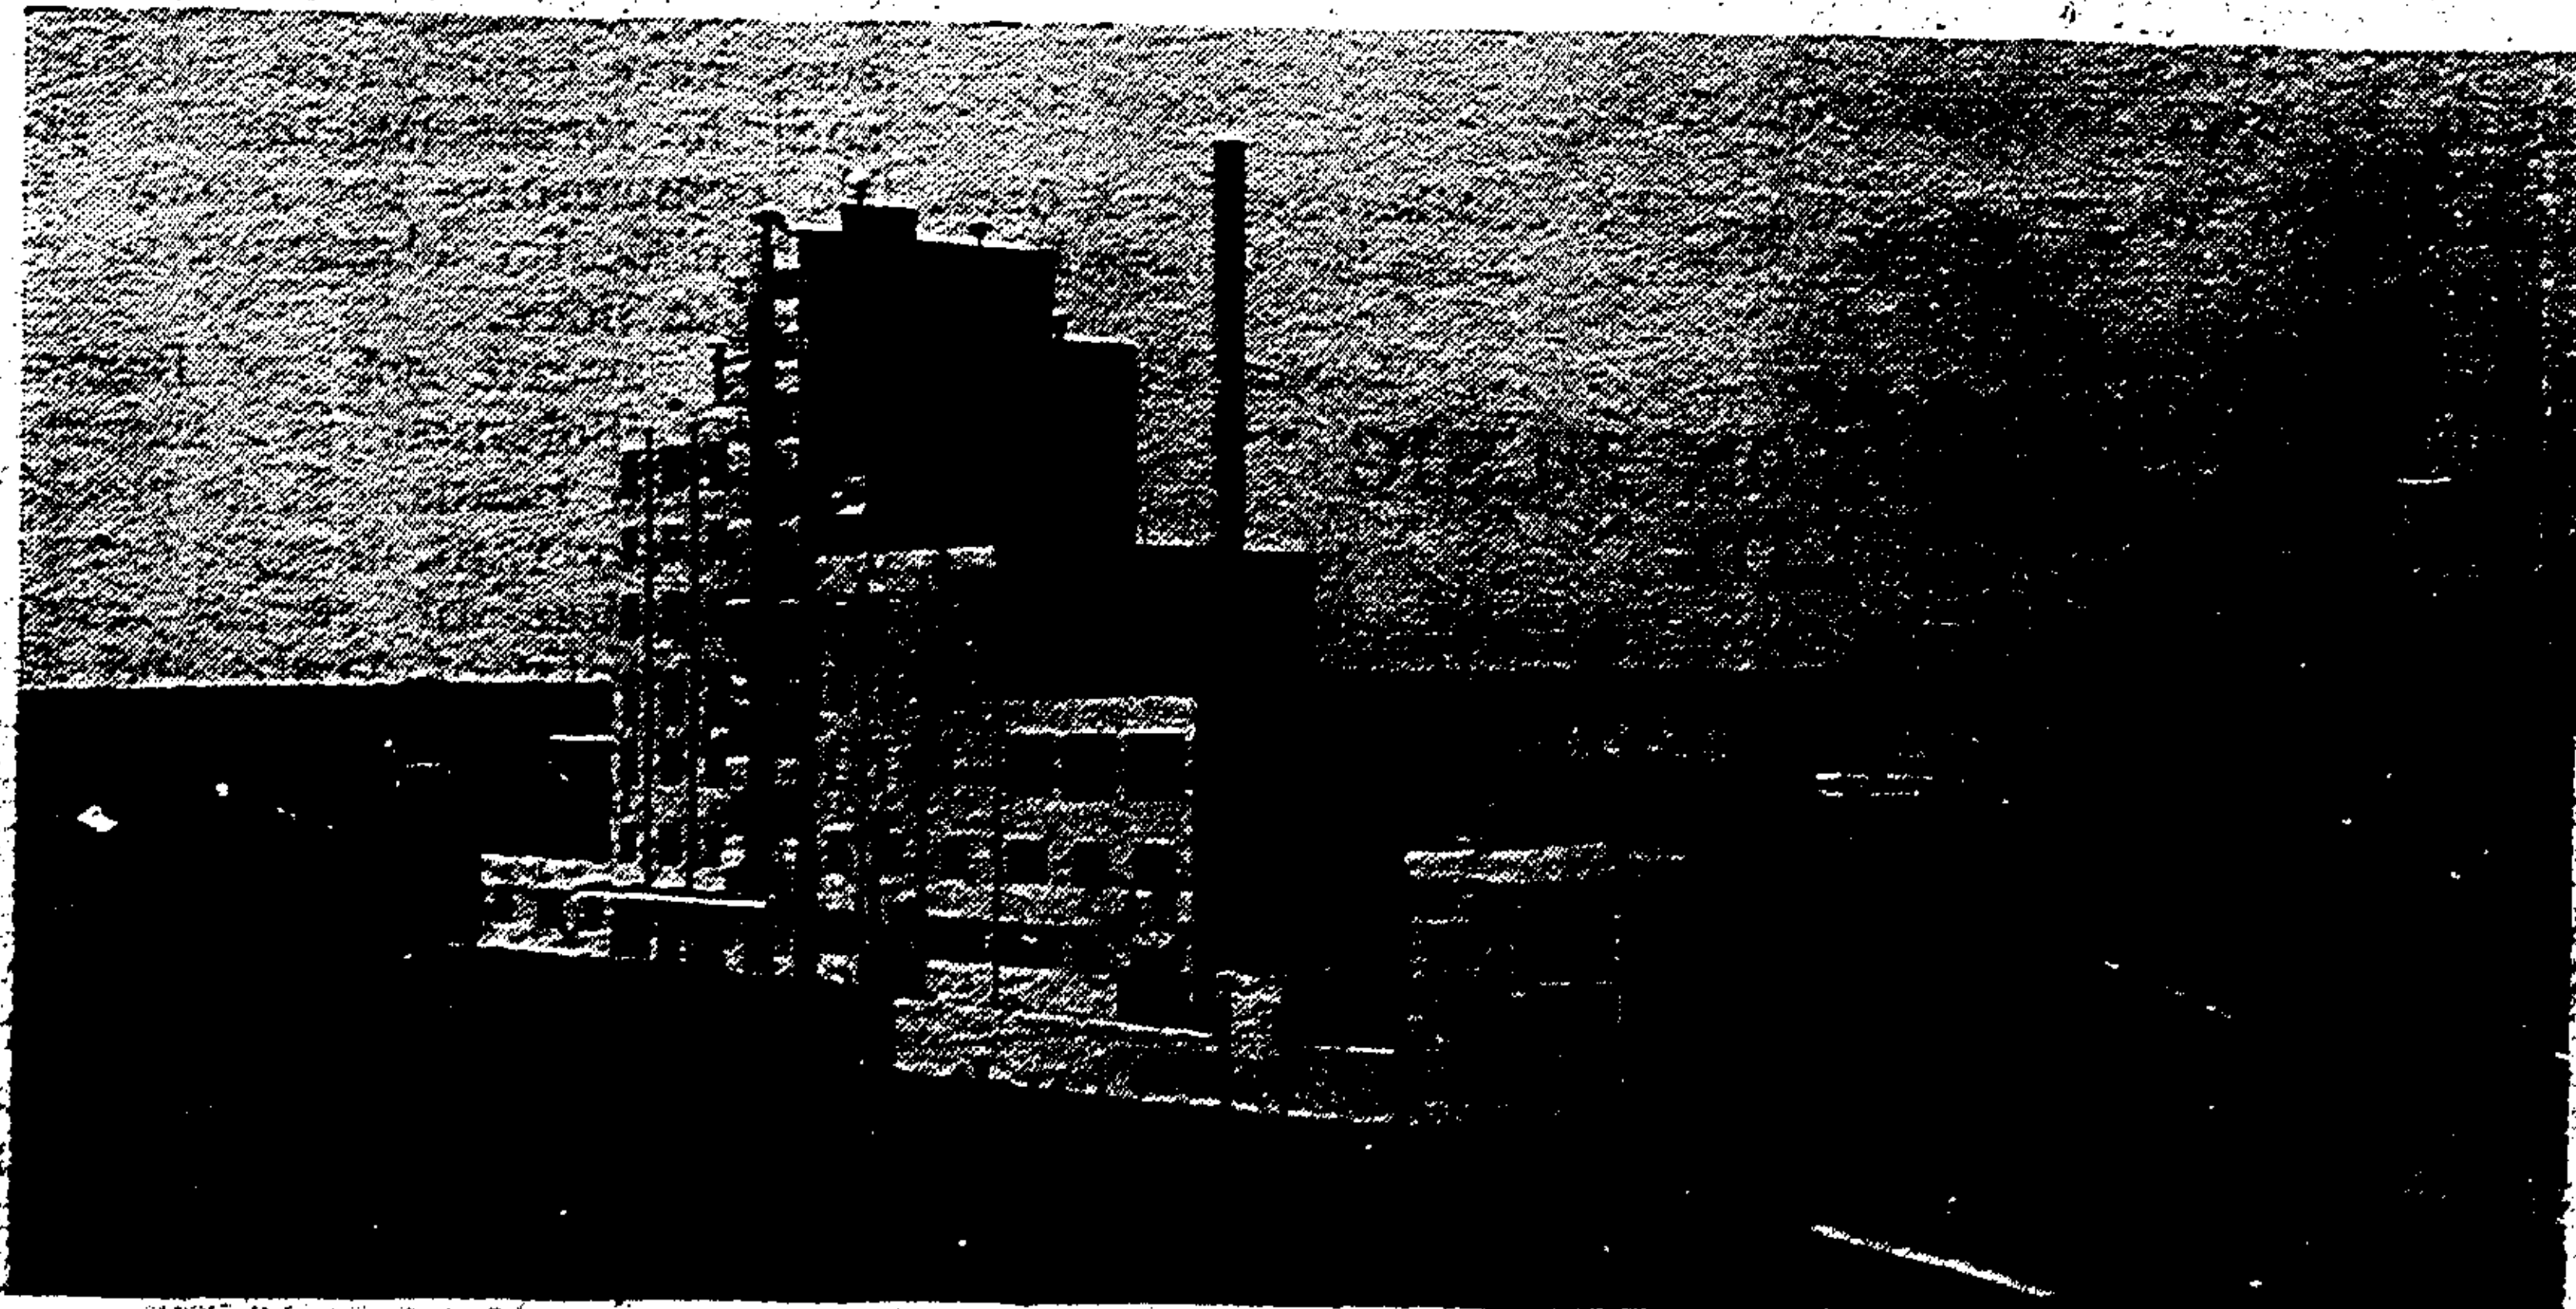

Tientsin, To-day.

The first air battle on the North China front took place over Loyang, an important strategical centre where one of the largest Chinese air force aerodromes is situated, yesterday.

Japanese bombers appeared over Loyang in an endeavour to wipe out the aerodrome, and were met by a flight of speedy Chinese fighters.

A thrilling dog-fight ensued, lasting for over half an hour, at the end of which time the Japanese planes were forced to retire.

No details can be obtained as to casualties.—Trans-Ocean.

THE LEAGUE AND PALESTINE

The League Council, while endorsing the British proposal that there should be prepared more detailed proposals for the partition of Palestine, was plainly no more disposed to grant carte blanche approval than were members of the House of Commons. M. Delbos paid tribute to the frank, loyal and impartial attitude of the British Government. Colonel Beck worried round the question of immigration. A few more lukewarm speeches and that was that. No-one bursting with enthusiasm, and no-one prepared to insist upon opposition, with Great Britain as the proposer.

Brief cabled reports indicate, however, that Mr. Eden adroitly shifted the burden of responsibility and it is apparently a Committee of the Council which will visit Palestine to negotiate with the Arabs and the Jews and then submit detailed proposals to the British Government and to the League. Whether a League Committee, will be able to any better than the Peel Commission evolve a scheme that is likewise satisfactory to Arabs and Jews remains an issue of considerable doubt, though the chances are possibly greater now that the issues have been made fully clear, and the forces making for possible compromise are slowly and with difficulty beginning to work on both sides.

The sword, not of Damocles but of Solomon, is suspended over their heads. It is probably true to say that, despite even the exacerbation of recent events, the majority of Arabs and Jews in Palestine, if some of their more intransigent "leaders" could be suppressed, would find some way of rubbing along tolerably together. Even the Jews, much wiser politically than the Arabs, have been far too vocal, and through too many months, in and outside Palestine. That astute gentleman, the Mufti, may yet stultify himself; he knows that overt action means arrest, but his present course may mean stalemate, and his prestige is waning without need of a blunt instrument.

The proposed Jewish State is obviously very cramped. While Lord Samuel was using some rhetorical exaggeration in saying that "there would be a Saar, a Polish Corridor and five or six Danzigs in a country the size of Wales," still the proposed boundaries would undoubtedly need revision.

Where many observers quarrel, however, is not with the details but with the very idea of partition. We think, however, it is a mistake to take the line that if partition comes, we must give up hope for the future of Palestine, for we believe that the two States, once in being, would find some modus vivendi which would bring them into close association in their common interests, despite the disruptive influences which would probably be brought to bear upon them from outside. The Jews are too wise to be deceived by such propaganda, and the ruler of the new Arab State would be the Emir Abdullah, who knows where the true interests of the Arabs lie. If compromise fails, we shall be (and indeed have been) reproached with running away from the obligations of the Mandate, whereas if the peace-makers succeed, as we sincerely hope they will, perfidious Britain will incur the usual charge of pursuing a Machiavellian policy. Shall we deserve either accusation?

Sir Edward Stubbs

Sir Edward Stubbs has retired from the governorship of Ceylon, and by the time these words appear, says the "Crown Colonist" in a comment on the career of Hong Kong's former Governor, he will have arrived, with Lady Stubbs, in England. At a dinner given in his honour before their departure, Sir Edward said that he felt a good deal of harm was done by those in authority not retiring when in the normal course they should do so, thus blocking the way to promotion of younger men. He disarmed criticism by cheerfully admitting that he had blundered once or twice lately, and that this probably indicated it was time he retired! But his real reason, in addition to that already indicated, was that, retiring while still in possession of health and vigour, he hoped he might do much to spread a better knowledge of Ceylon in England, and to correct certain misrepresentations of that Colony. This is a very laudable ambition, in which we wish Sir Edward every success, and it is work that needs doing. All the Colonies should be far better known in England than they are, and no one is better qualified than Sir Edward Stubbs to disseminate that knowledge. He has had a very distinguished career in the Colonial Service, extending over Malaya, Hong Kong, Jamaica, Cyprus and Ceylon, but he can render still more valuable service in England by his wide knowledge and experience of these Colonies. It is understood that he is becoming a vice-president of the Colonial Empire Union, it is pleasing to think that, both through that body and in other ways, he will help to "project" the Colonial Empire at home.

DR. WELLINGTON KOO MAKES DEEP IMPRESSION AT GENEVA

Issue Likely To Be Referred To Committee

JAPAN TO BE ASKED TO STATE HER CASE

Geneva, To-day.

The speech made by Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese Ambassador to Paris and delegate at Geneva, in the League Assembly yesterday, was delivered with restraint but deep emotion, and made a very deep impression.

In the concluding passages of the speech Dr. Koo outlined three possibilities of League action.

Firstly, consideration and action by the Council itself.

Secondly, formal reference of the question to the Assembly, and Thirdly, reference of the matter to the advisory committee on the Sino-Japanese dispute, established in 1933.

It is probable that the last course will be adopted, and this appears to be the action desired by the Chinese Government itself.

It is expected that the Council will take this course at an early meeting.

STILL EXISTS

The advisory committee of twenty-three States, established in 1933, is still in existence.

The United States, though not a member of the League, has a seat but not a vote on the advisory committee.

The Soviet, as a member of the Council, will automatically have a seat on the committee.

REQUEST TO JAPAN

It seems certain that the advisory committee will ask Japan to state her case without making it incumbent upon her to accept any League obligations.

It is understood that the Chinese Government is not likely to press the appeal to the League any further until it has seen the result of reference of the dispute to the advisory committee.—Reuter.

CATHOLIC APPEAL TO LEAGUE

Nanking, To-day.

The Catholic Society of China has cabled an appeal to the League of Nations for effective sanctions against Japan for her aggressive acts in China.—Hua Nan.

DR. KOO'S SPEECH

Blockade Denounced As Illegal

Geneva, To-day.

Dr. Wellington Koo was the principal speaker in the general debate in the League Assembly yesterday morning.

Dr. Koo gave a detailed account of the invasion of China by the Japanese, who had already landed over 300,000 men equipped with the most up-to-date and barbarous war material.

At present, a desperate struggle was going on between the unscrupulous invaders and the Chinese, who were resolved to save their country and people.

Dr. Koo denounced the blockade of the Chinese coasts as illegal and stressed the Chinese desire to settle the conflict by peaceful means.

JAPAN'S ATTITUDE

Her efforts in this direction, he said, had invariably been interpreted by Japan as a sign of weakness.

Just as in 1932, the Japanese had attacked Shanghai in the hope of forcing the Chinese Government to capitulate.

It had often been said that pressure of excess population resulting from an annual increase of 800,000, had compelled Japan to seek new territories, but this was merely a pretext for arousing sympathy and deceiving public opinion in other countries.

JAPANESE NOT SETTLERS

Forty years after the conquest and annexation of Korea, only half a million Japanese had settled there.

For the past quarter of a century Japan's influence in South Manchuria had been predominant, and yet scarcely 300,000 Japanese lived in that region.

In reality, said Dr. Koo, the density of population in Japan was less than in certain European countries, for instance, Belgium.

The speaker said that if Japan succeeded in gaining possession of a large part of China, she would deem herself strong enough to attack British and American possessions in the Pacific Ocean and Asia.

PEACE INDIVISIBLE

The peace of the world was indivisible and its maintenance lay in the general interest.

Dr. Koo demanded that the obligations imposed by the League Covenant should be enforced.

DR. WELLINGTON KOO

The Chinese Government had addressed a formal appeal to the League based on Articles X, XI and XVII of the Covenant.

It was now for the League Council to decide whether it would investigate the matter and take the necessary measures, or whether it would submit the question to the advisory committee appointed on February 24, 1933, to follow the Sino-Japanese conflict, or finally, whether it would submit the question to the League Assembly.—Trans-Ocean.

JAPANESE ISSUE WARNING

Tokyo, To-day.

A warning to the League of Nations not to intervene in the Sino-Japanese conflict on the basis of the Chinese appeal in Geneva, was made by a spokesman of the Foreign Office yesterday.

Japan, he alleged, had no intention of interfering with the unification of China, but desired that this unification be carried out on "healthy principles in the interest of world peace."—Trans-Ocean.

FOOD SHORTAGE AMONG JAPANESE TROOPS ALLEGED

Shanghai, To-day.

According to reliable sources, the Japanese forces in Shanghai are facing a shortage of food.

This appears to be the explanation for the activities of Japanese warships along the coast in seizing junks laden with rice and other foodstuffs.

Owing to the outbreak of cholera, all ships arriving in Japan from Shanghai have been compelled to go into quarantine for the usual period before being allowed to enter the ports.

This has caused a considerable delay in ships leaving Japan for Shanghai with supplies for the Japanese forces.

It is stated that the Japanese Navy have now made arrangements with Japanese merchant vessels leaving Hong Kong and other foreign ports to purchase foodstuffs for them.

The supplies, according to arrangements, are to be transferred to Japanese warships, which will meet the merchant vessels on their way to Japan.—Our Own Correspondent.

ATROCITY ALLEGATION

Foochow, To-day.

Chinese reports allege a terrible atrocity against a Japanese destroyer blockading the coast near Foochow.

It is alleged that the destroyer stopped two junks, herded the ten members of the crew into the holds, locked them in and set fire to the junks.—Hua Nan.

CONFLICTING NORTH Japanese "Sweeping Through" Report Disputed

Peiping, To-day.

The Japanese centre claims that after routing four Chinese divisions it has attained a line west of the walled town of Ku An.

Success is also claimed by the Japanese troops in the Lianghsiang sector, where the Chinese are reported to have yielded strategic points over a wide area.

The Japanese crossing of the Han River, 400 yards wide, was preceded by a terrific artillery barrage which blasted the Chinese troops out of their trenches on the far side of the river.

PONTOON BRIDGES

The Japanese cavalry then forded the river, while mechanised units rumbled across pontoon bridges followed by infantry, while scouts who had swum the river, took up positions on the far side to protect the crossing of the main body.

Once across the river, the Japanese pushed on without pause, making very effective use of tanks across the flat Hopei plain.—Reuter.

FALL OF KUAN DENIED

Paoting, To-day.

Severe fighting is in progress around Ku-an, on the Pinghan Railway, and Japanese repeated attempts at crossing the river were balked yesterday. The Japanese allegation that Ku An has been taken by the Japanese is authoritatively denied.—Hua Nan.

HARASSED BY IRREGULARS

Nanking, To-day.

The Japanese forces in North China are much harassed by irregulars. They were early this week responsible for the destruction of the Peining Railway tracks at several points and a number of Japanese Army planes lying on the ground.—Hua Nan.

CHINESE REPORT ON BATTLE

Peiping, To-day.

The biggest battle to date in the Sino-Japanese conflict began yesterday morning with launching of a Japanese offensive along a front 80 kilometres long south-west of Peiping, where the Chinese are reported to have an army of 300,000.

According to Chinese reports, the Government troops have succeeded in capturing various strategically important points on the west bank of the Yungting River, in the Ku-An sector.

On the other hand, the Japanese claim capture of Ku-An.

DESPERATE RESISTANCE

Focal point of the struggle is Pinghang, where the Chinese are offering desperate resistance.

Aim of the Japanese offensive is Paotingfu, and strong Japanese reinforcements have left Peiping and Tientsin for the front.—Trans-Ocean.

The franc is down again, and at one time yesterday reached 145 to the pound sterling, representing a depreciation of 9 per cent. since the beginning of September.

Canton Insurance Claim Case

Judgment was reserved this morning in the case in which the Hop Fat firm, merchants, No. 7, Wing Kut Street, claimed $9,600 on an insurance policy taken out with the Canton Insurance Office, Ltd., before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, this morning.

The case arose out of the sinking of a junk on which were 750 bags of manure and 150 bags of cement, for which an insurance policy was taken with the defendant company. The junk foundered near Saw Chau Island on January 3, 1936, while en her way to Macao.

The Hon. Mr. Lee D'Almada, Jnr., instructed by Mr. M. A. da Silva, appeared for plaintiffs, and defendant was represented by Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. W. A. Mackinlay of Messrs. Deacons.

Defendants admitted granting the policy, but contended that the junk was scuttled and was unseaworthy, these two facts bringing it within the exceptions of the policy.

Concluding his address this morning, Mr. Macnamara said the problem was one of facts. The remarkable feature was that there were two partners, one an honest partner and the other a dishonest partner.

WEATHER

He pointed out that Messrs. Deacons, made serious allegations against plaintiffs regarding alterations in the account books, to which plaintiffs made no answer.

The junk master made three reports, but not in any of the reports did he mention anything about the weather to which plaintiffs credit the sinking of the junk with its cargo. Counsel submitted that the police officers who gave evidence as regards the weather, might have been mistaken as regards the date.

The real point concluded Counsel was what was the condition of the junk when she sailed.

COUNSEL'S REPLY

Mr. D'Almada replied that it must be accepted that the cargo was placed on board the junk before she sailed.

If there was clever swindle, added Counsel, the books which had been altered, could have been carefully prepared months before the case came up. Why, asked Counsel, should plaintiff wait until such a late date, as alleged by the defendants.

Mr. D'Almada then went on to explain certain discrepancies, which he submitted, no-one participating in a swindle, would be so stupid as to permit. Continuing Mr. d'Almada said that evidence was given that on the day in question the junk encountered very bad weather and this evidence was agreed upon by witnesses who stated that a heavy gale was blowing at the time.

On the question of seaworthiness, this consisted in varying degrees and a junk may be considered so to do a particular voyage. The boat had been battered about for two hours and had sunk through one of the perils of the seas as provided for in the Policy. The fact that the ship had been 44 days under water, must have done some more damage to the junk.

Judgment was reserved.

FAR EAST EX-WAR RAIDER

In North Sea Rescue

Nine persons were rescued from the British yacht Marie, 40 tons, which was sinking in the North Sea recently. They were rescued by the German steamer Oldenburg, the Hapag Far Eastern liner.

The occupants of the yacht were Cmdr. and Mrs. S. A. Brooks, of Lowestoft, their 19-year-old daughter, two sons, aged 14 and 15, Mr. Peter Tilbury, the mate, and three friends, one of whom was a young German woman.

The Oldenburg landed the party at Dover.

"We sailed from Southwold for a week's holiday round about Belgium and Holland," Cmdr. Brooks said. "At midday we discovered that the boat had sprung a leak. The water was coming in so fast that we were unable to control it. We anchored near the North Hinder lightship and sent up distress signals. They were repeated by the lightship.

"Shortly afterwards three vessels came in sight. One was the Oldenburg, which during the war was the famous German raider Moewe.

Sank In Ten Minutes

"She came alongside, and we climbed on board by means of the ship's ladder. As our yacht was sinking I did not consider it safe to leave anyone on board. The Oldenburg took her in tow. Within 10 minutes she foundered.

"The yacht was my home, and I have lost her. My family and wife lost a large quantity of valuable possessions.

"We were treated with the utmost kindness and consideration by Capt. Potkyra of the Oldenburg. He did everything he could to make us comfortable."

During the war the Moewe laid minefields off the Pentland Firth and off La Rochelle and captured or destroyed many thousands of tons of shipping.

6,000,000 AMERICANS LEARNING TO DANCE

More than 6,000,000 Americans are now enrolled in dancing schools. Mr. Donald Grant of the Dancing Teachers' Business Association made this figure public at the annual convention of that organisation.

The influence of recent films, many of which have featured dancing, has been in part responsible for the tremendous rise in public interest in this form of recreation.

"Dancing for pure enjoyment never before has had such a tremendous vogue as now," Mr. Grant said. "The movies, the ballets and similar enterprises have all helped to stimulate this interest. More than 100,000,000 dollars (£20,000,000) are now being spent each year for dancing lessons by the American public."

Mr. Grant asserted that of the 6,000,000 dancing pupils throughout the country more than half are children. He explained that although all forms of dancing are in favour with the American public, tap dancing is more popular than any of the others. Ballroom dancing comes next, then ballet dancing.

CRAWFORD'S SMASHING VICTORY

BODIKER CRUSHED BY ACCURATE DRIVING ON BOTH HANDS

TSUI DROPS SET TO IU

(By "OBSERVER")

BIGGEST sensation in the Colony Hardcourt Championships, continued at the United Services Recreation Club yesterday afternoon, was the smashing defeat of George Bodiker, the highly-fancied K. C. C. contender for the singles title, at the hands of his youthful clubmate, Alec Crawford, by scores of 6-0, 6-2.

IT IS GENERALLY CONCEDED THAT CRAWFORD PLAYS AN ENTIRELY DIFFERENT BRAND OF GAME ON A HARD-COURT, BUT SO, ALSO, DOES BODIKER, WHO AT ONE TIME REIGNED AS CHAMPION OF CANTON IN THE FACE OF SOME EXCELLENT COMPETITION.

Allowing for rather indifferent form on the part of Bodiker yesterday, Crawford was nevertheless, so convincing that he must now be considered a serious threat for honours. He has been knocking at the door of local tennis fame, for some time, and his enthusiasm, which takes him on to the courts for practice, five days out of the week, is deserving of all the game has to give him.

All the other games went as expected, although the doubles tie between Choa and Leonard and the Hussain brothers, was marred by an accident to S. A. Hussain which compelled him to retire.

Tsui Wai-pui, indulging in his penchant for fancy play, lost the first set to Iu Tak-cheuk but never at any period appeared in difficulties. I am looking forward with some interest, to his match with Crawford, which should force him to give of his best and will prove conclusively whether his tour has been of benefit to him and will also be the means of assessing Crawford's improvement.

CRAWFORD v BODIKER

The outstanding game of the day was, of course, between Crawford and Bodiker, the latter putting up a miserable showing against the masterful placing and driving of his opponent. It speaks well for Crawford that he won his sets by scores of 6-0, 6-2. Bodiker tried again and again to outwit his adversary by placing shots to the latter's backhand, but Crawford was more than equal to this bit of strategy—his backhand driving was as reliable as his forehand.

To say that the match was a walkaway would be putting it mildly. However, Bodiker might not have been in the best physical condition, although he made no complaint.

TSUI v IU

It did not seem to me that Tsui Wai-put extended himself to the fullest in defeating Iu Tak-cheuk; the latter won the first set chiefly through errors on his opponent's part. Both players had some invaluable practice at any rate. Tsui particularly so in trying out his fore and back hand driving and his celebrated fancy shots. Iu was left

RESULTS AT A GLANCE

A. Crawford beat G. Bodiker 6-0, 6-2.

Tsui Wai-pui beat Iu Tak-cheuk 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

A. L. Sullivan beat Chan Kam-moon 6-2, 6-2.

E. C. Fincher beat F. H. Kwok 7-5, 6-1.

G. Choa and J. W. Leonard beat S. A. and S. S. Hussain 6-3, (S. A. Hussain turned his ankle when the score was 4-4 in the Second Set and Choa and Leonard were conceded the match.)

S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn beat J. Pengelly and I. Agafuroff 6-3, 6-3.

standing on many occasions by Tsui's chopping.

CHAN v SULLIVAN

Fancy is the word for Sullivan! His bag of tricks was opened up on Chan. In most cases, the latter did not bother to run after ball, Sullivan laid down a barrage of slices, chops and drives. Chan was no match for his clever opponent, who left him flabbergasted but always smiling in defeat.

FINCHER v KWOK

Although not fighting fit, Fincher outplayed Kwok. For a short while in the first set, however, he did not have things all his way but the contender for many a Colony championship proved his mettle and the tide of battle eventually turned his way.

DOUBLES MATCHES

There is very good combination in Choa and Leonard. I venture the opinion that Choa, still a youngster, has all the makings of a coming champion and, with the right coaching, there is no limit to what he will attain in the local tennis world. He has much of that poise now, that coupled with confidence and maturity, will see him at the top of the Colony's tennis in the not too distant future.

An action picture of G. Bodiker who was beaten yesterday by his clubmate, A. Crawford, in the Colony Hardcourt Singles championships to provide the first major sensation of the Tournament.

His serving is particularly good and more speed will develop later. Leonard's serving is sadly lacking in speed, but his general aggressiveness stood them in good stead. There were some splendid recoveries in this short match curtailed by an unfortunate turning of S. A. Hussain's ankle after the score was tied at 4-all in the second set.

I think that Choa and Leonard would have won this match anyway, as they came behind from a score of 1-3 to tie their opponents at 4 all, and were going strong when Hussain limped off the court to end the match.

S. A. AND H. D. RUMJAHN v PENGELLY AND AGAFUROFF

The Rumjahn cousins were much too strong for Pengelly and Agafuroff, annexing the match by scores of 6-3, 6-3. Nothing venture, nothing gain; Pengelly and Agafuroff should have learnt some valuable tennis hints from the Colony's single champion and runner-up. The Rumjahns were not extended at any time during the match and should go on now to win the doubles championship. They were in great form yesterday!

HARDCOURT TENNIS PROGRAMME

An excellent programme of matches will thrill spectators at the U.S.R.C. this afternoon, when, all being equal, some of the finest tennis seen in Hong Kong for many years, should result.

There are three matches of singular interest. George Choa meets Teddy Fincher, Tsui Wai-pui meets A. Crawford and S. A. Rumjahn clashes with A. L. Sullivan.

The fourth match, between Guest and Razack, although neither have particularly distinguished themselves in tournaments hitherto, should also provide tense struggle.

FOUR "C" DIVISION GAMES

This Afternoon's Tennis

Four matches will be played off in the "C" Division of the tennis League this afternoon, weather permitting, but it is very unlikely that as a result of any of them, the prospective destination of the championship will be affected in any way.

Most interesting game appears to be that between Radio Sports Club and Chinese Recreation Club (1) which will be played at Caroline Hill. The former club are not particularly powerful but they have a keen side who are quite capable of upsetting the strongest teams. Although C.R.C. will not be in any danger of defeat they may have to fight hard for their points.

Craigengower will have little chance against Recreio but Army are likely to give a good account of themselves against C.R.C. (2), while a close game between I.R.C. is indicated, with the odds on the Indians.

OMAR WINNING TITLE SMASHES RECORD

RANDLE SUFFERS DEFEAT IN DOUR STRUGGLE

The Kowloon Bowling Green Club was the scene of a very interesting and exciting Lawn Bowls game when U. M. Omar defeated S. Randle by 21 shots to 18 in the Final of the Open Singles Lawn Bowls championship, after leading by 14 shots to 3 on the 12th head, to create a record by being the first player, in the Colony to win this championship three times.

What appeared to be a runaway victory for Omar was turned into a dour struggle by Randle, who in the latter parts of the game was brilliant. There were one or two incidents, which had they gone in Randle's favour, would have changed the whole complexion of the game.

Omar found the green from the start and by good play, established a useful lead before Randle had really settled down but the latter rallied magnificently when things looked very dark and by the 18th head had drawn level at 15 all, in the course of which he registered three threes.

GOOD PLAY

Both played well, there were few wasted woods and both were on the jack on numerous occasions during the game. Randle did not meet with the best of luck whenever he was forced to draw to save a shot, and on no less than three occasions he failed by the narrowest of margins.

Omar opened the scoring with a two, and in the next head, Randle promoted one of Omar's woods to give him the second shot and with his last wood in his attempt to draw, Randle got through a very narrow port to save a shot.

DREW LEVEL

Randle drew level on the 18th head, thanks to a three, but after that Omar improved greatly and seemed to have an edge on his opponent by his steadiness.

On the 22nd head Randle was applauded. When the score was 17 shots to 16 in favour of Omar, Randle attempted to take out Omar's wood in the hope of scoring a two. He managed to hit the wood but was too heavy and he did not succeed.

A two by Omar gave him a four shot advantage on the next head and he requiring only one shot to win, Randle scored a single on the next two heads before Omar secured the required point.

FINE MATERIAL AT DISPOSAL OF SELECTORS

BATES' SOUND STAMINA

ARTHUR DAND STILL IMPRESSIVE

(By "ADREM")

DESPITE the fact that both teams played a man short throughout, the first trial match arranged by the Hong Kong Hockey Club, played at King's Park yesterday afternoon, must have been very encouraging to the selectors.

THERE WAS A GREAT DEAL OF THAT "BEGINNING OF THE SEASON" ELEMENT EVIDENT IN THE PLAY BUT ALL BEING CONSIDERED. A VERY FAIR STANDARD WAS ATTAINED ESPECIALLY AS 19 OF THE 20 MEN WHO PARTICIPATED, WERE OBVIOUSLY TERRIBLY OUT OF CONDITION.

The one exception was R. A. Bates, who played a sterling game at right-half for the Colours. His energy was really amazing and one trite remark to the effect that he must have trained throughout the Summer on lemon-squash, summed up his display fairly accurately.

Although nobody paid a great deal of attention to the scoring, I might mention in passing that Whites, who were led by G. E. R. Divett, and included among their ranks the potential forward-line, had easily the better of the potential defence and won by five goals to three.

It was difficult to keep an accurate tally on the scorers, as I said, no one was worrying very much about the result, but I believe Divett and Owen Hughes bagged a couple and George Fowler, one for Colours, while Mackay (2) and Starbuck found the net for Whites.

UNFORGIVABLE FAULT

Probably the most unfortunate feature of yesterday's game, from the point of view of a trial, was the absence of one of the goal-keepers, Van der Waal, who for some reason, failed to put in an appearance. Benwell is not in my opinion, up to Club senior standard. He shapes very well indeed but he has that fault, unforgivable in custodians, of not going out to meet his man.

Not one of the five goals that passed him resulted from a drive. Without exception, the ball was taken, almost to the goal-mouth and then flicked. Of course, there may be some improvement in subsequent games but I'm afraid that unless there is, Club will have to look further for a goal-keeper.

BIG HANDICAP

It was difficult to gauge E. V. Reed's form at back, as throughout the game, he was forced to hold the rear line of defence by himself. Against the fast moving forward line he had opposed to him yesterday, he never really had a chance.

At the other end, veteran Arthur Dan, who had dusted the cobwebs off his stick and come out of retirement, still showed that he has heaps of hockey in him yet. He gave a really sterling display, chiefly featured by fine positioning. If he was a trifle slow in recovery, his tackling was as robust and as sure as of old.

His partner, a player I couldn't identify, also did very well and I have little doubt that the selectors will bear him in mind when teams are chosen.

WILLIE REED OUT OF TOUCH

As I have already remarked, the "star" halfback was Bates. Willie Reed was definitely out of practice and one sorely missed those deft interceptions which are so closely associated with his normal form. Austen at left-half for Colours was well in the limelight with some fine spoiling.

Divett will have little to worry about in his forward-line. He has all the material for a fast-moving aggressive attack. He himself, quickly found his touch and led the opposition defence a pretty dance. George Fowler on his left also initiated some nice movements.

WALLACE'S VERSATILITY

Frankly, I am not sure whether Wallace, making his debut in Club hockey, was a half or a back. In any event he was invariably very prominent in most of White's attacks. He is one of these versatile players who are equally at home in any position and is certain to find a place in the senior side.

Owen Hughes made a welcome return to the game—he turned out all too seldom last year—and appears the obvious choice for the right-wing berth.

BEST FORWARD-LINE

All being equal I should say the best forward-line would be, reading from the right, Owen Hughes, S. A. Fowler, G. E. R. Divett, G. H. Fowler and Vic Bond. A possible alternative would be to place Sydney Fowler on the right wing, move Owen Hughes to the left, and bring in Wallace at inside-right to the exclusion of Bond.

It is difficult to form any definite opinions on the other departments so early on, but the material is undoubtedly there and I have little doubt that the selectors will make the best of it.

REGATTA

One of the most important aquatic regattas in the world will be held at Catalina Island (U.S.A.) from September 4-11.

More than 500 boats, hailing from Seattle to San Diego will compete. The first five boats of the New California 32ft class will be seen in commission.

John Bromwich Has Done Grandly

Whatever else has come out of McGrath. He did valiantly under such a strain—a debacle—which might have daunted a veteran, against both Grant and Budge. He took his set from Budge after the latter had led at 5-3 and had had more than one match point.

A short review of his form and performances abroad is timely today at the end of a tour choked full with team disappointments.

Bromwich had to take the court in America to fill at the last moment the place of Quist and

At Wimbledon for the championship he took a set from H. W. Austin and Crawford failed to do that. In the doubles also at Wimbledon with Cliff Sproule, Bromwich extended some of the world's best pairs, including Budge and Mako.

THIS WAS A REAL SMASHING DELIVERY!

What is a smashing delivery? Well, take this as an instance.

In a cricket match at Blackhall, near West Hartlepool, where Synthonia (Billingham-on-Tees) were the visitors, R. Caddy, the Synthonia fast bowler, in clean bowling Tom, uprooted a stump and knocked one of the bats forty yards.

When a fielder picked up the ball it came away in halves.

FOOTBALL FORM GUIDE

Comprehensive Table Shows Form At A Glance

A comprehensive guide to the form of all Clubs in the four premier English Football Leagues and the premier Scottish League will be found in the appended table. To assist in comparing the teams, details of how they fared in their last five matches are given.

The letters W, L, and D indicate matches won, lost and drawn respectively. Games played at home are shown in capital letters, while away games are denoted by ordinary type. The figures in brackets denote the position held by that team at the conclusion of last season, an asterisk denotes that that team has been promoted and a dagger that that team has been relegated.

JAPANESE NAVY ACTS NEAR H.K.

ransacked the boat, and destroyed oars, rope and sails.

The junk was left to drift, with three men, one woman and four children on board.

Fortunately, however, they were sighted by another fishing junk, which towed them to Shauiwan Bay late yesterday afternoon.

H.K. LAUNCH SHELLED

Relating his experience with the Japanese, Ho Man, coxswain of the steam launch "Tung Hing," of the Hong Kong Launch Towing Company, stated that he left San Mi with a junk in tow, laden with vegetables, eggs and other foodstuffs.

He was on his way to Hong Kong. Near Ma Kung, he saw a three-funnelled gun-boat coming up and immediately piloted the launch alongside the junk intending to take off all the men and make for the shore.

As he was transferring the men to the launch, the Japanese opened fire, one shell crossing the bows of the launch.

With all on board the launch, with the exception of two old men, who would not go, he steered the launch towards the shore of Ma Kung intending to beach her.

JUNK BOMBED

More shells from the warship failed to hit the launch.

The Japanese then lowered two motor boats which sped towards the launch, which by this time, had been reached by Ho Man, who with the other men, jumped overboard and swam for the shore.

As they neared the beached launch, one of the motor boats opened machine-gun fire. None was hit, however.

Japanese marines boarded the junk, transferred all the vegetables and foodstuffs to their gun-boat and set the two old men ashore in a sampan.

The Japanese then sent up a sea-plane which flew very low and dropped a bomb on the vacated junk, totally destroying it.

Poantui, numbering about 300, stationed at Ma Kung fired on the plane with rifles and the pilot in return, bombed the Chinese barracks.

The coxswain managed to get back to Hong Kong yesterday.

Trains playing between the two cities are compelled to extinguish all lights, owing to the danger of air raids.

Since the Sunkiang bridge, southwest of Shanghai, has been destroyed by Japanese bombers, travellers from Nanking must leave the train there for a long trudge into Shanghai.—Trans-Ocean.

Taiyuan, To-day.

Taiyuan was bombed by a Japanese squadron for nearly an hour last night. They were engaged by anti-aircraft guns, but kept high out of range. Little damage of military importance was done, but civilian casualties were numerous.—Our Own Correspondent.

The naval authorities informed the "China Mail" this afternoon that the Rawalpindi was not stopped, but hove to on her own initiative when she saw a Japanese destroyer flying a signal near her yesterday at noon.

The destroyer then asked the Rawalpindi where she was going, received a reply "Hong Kong," and left.
